FOREWORD

I consider that this Inventory of the records of the various parishes and missions of the Episcopal Church in Vermont is a most valuable piece of work. There is constant need of reference to parish records. In this Inventory one can readily find what the records are and where they are located. It also provides a survey of source material for the history of the Episcopal Church in Vermont.

The Inventory, undertaken by the Division of the Historical Records Survey of the Work Projects Administration, represents a tremendous amount of difficult work. Everyone connected with the undertaking has given diligent care to every detail and conscientiously tried to make an accurate survey of our parish records. And the work has been done not only with skill but with unfailing courtesy and wholehearted cooperation.

I am especially grateful to the Rev. Samuel N. Bean who has had active charge of the compilation of the Inventory. Despite many discouragements his interest and enthusiasm never failed. He and his co-workers have done a very creditable job.

Bishop of Vermont

PREFACE

The Vermont Historical Records Survey is sponsored by the Vermont Public Records Commission under the auspices of the Work Projects Administration, Division of Professional and Service Projects, Historical Records Survey program of which Sargent B. Child is Director.

The object of the program is to survey, preserve and render accessible source material of all kinds. At the present time the Vermont Survey is, in addition to working on church records, working on public records, early American imprints, American portraits, newspaper indexing and manuscripts. This Inventory of the Church Archives of Vermont, The Diocese of Vermont, Protestant Episcopal is part of a series of publications nationwide for all religious faiths. This is the first of such a series within the state of Vermont.

The inventory of the records covered in this volume was written by the late Charles E. Putnam assisted by Edna Smith. The Rev. Samuel Bean, supervisor of church records, wrote the histories and was assisted in research on the history of the diocese by Jason Newton. The initial research, field work and the securing of data making this publication possible, was done under the supervision of Samuel Bean. The inventory was checked by Rowena Lee; stencils were cut by Margaret DeGeorge and Agnes Cabak; and the mimeographing was done by James Leavitt. The Vermont staff has profited by the constructive advice and criticism given all phases of the work by the National Office especially Donald A. Thompson, Assistant Archivist in charge of the Church Archives and Sargent B. Child, who was Regional Supervisor at the time much of this material was in process of compilation. Arrangement of the inventory is alphabetically by town, village or city. This arrangement is by special permission from Washington due to particular local circumstances which make it necessary.

The Vermont Survey has received the cooperation of both clergy and laity. This cooperation has made the work much easier. The Rt. Rev. Vedder Van Dyck has constantly given his cooperation and advice. Labor funds are furnished by the Work Projects Administration. However, all other non-labor costs of the project such as rent, light, heat, paper, etc. have been furnished by the State of Vermont and individuals, organizations and institutions sponsoring the program. The assistance which we receive is sincerely appreciated.

Explanatory Notes

This inventory of the Church Archives of the Diocese of

Abbreviations, Symbols, and Explanatory Notes

Vermont, Protestant Episcopal consists of an inventory of all records kept by churches extinct or existent and by officers within said churches current and non-current. A historical sketch of the diocese has been written; shorter sketches have been written pertaining to all churches within the diocese. These were written largely from actual source material taken from the records of the churches and Journals of the diocese. Supplementary source material is shown in the bibliography.

Church Organization Titles

The individual type of organization in Vermont is intrinsic. A few places have had at various times the influence of the parish type which is common to the Diocese of Maryland. They also, in some cases, have followed the system of church organization common to other American Dioceses. They also have in some cases carried on what might be termed parochial and Diocesan Missions. In general, however, there has been no distinct system in Vermont. Therefore, in assigning titles we have tried as far as possible, to picture the actual state of the particular group, assigning in active groups the present title recognized by the Diocese.

Volume Titles

These are shown exactly as found in volumes, file boxes or bundles. The current or latest title of a series is used as the title of the entry. Explanatory titles are placed in lower case in parentheses. When no title appears on a record, an assigned title is given in upper case in parentheses. Variations in the title of a record series are indicated. The term "titles vary slightly" is used when titles have wording similar to that used in the entry titles. Sub-entry titles within a series entry are arranged in alphabetical order.

Dates

The dates that appear directly after the title are the earliest and latest dates found within the entry. Dates shown in the body of the entry or following sub-entries are the dates of that particular item; where dates are not given for individual items the date of that item are identical with those in the title line.

Labeling

Letters or numbers placed in parentheses directly following

Abbreviations, Symbols, and Explanatory Notes

the quantity indicate the exact labeling.

Cross Reference

Cross references between churches are shown at the end of the individual church historical sketches. References to records which are related in subject matter, church or type are shown by the third-paragraph cross reference. Where no cross reference is made it may be assumed that no other record of the same or similar nature were found for that particular church.

Condition

Records are in good condition unless noted in the inventory.

Dimensions

Dimensions of volumes or bundles are given in order of height, width and thickness; dimensions of file boxes or drawers in order of height, width and depth. All dimensions are given in inches unless otherwise specified.

Location

The exact location of a record is given in each entry. Records are listed under church where located and cross referenced to church to which they refer if other than the church where located.

A. THE GENERAL CONVENTION OF THE PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH 1785--.

At a preliminary meeting in 1784, arrangements were made for the first general convention which was held at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, from September 27, to October 7, 1785. A second convention was held the following year at the same place. A special convention was held in 1786 at Wilmington, Delaware. In 1789 a convention was held at which Bishop William White of Pennsylvania was elected as first Presiding Bishop. The same year a constitution was adopted and at a second convention about three months later Bishop Samuel Seabury of Connecticut was elected Presiding Bishop and served from 1789-92. General Conventions have been held every three years since. In 1804 the rule was adopted that the Senior Bishop serve as the Presiding Bishop. This continued until it again became an elective office in 1926. There are now seventy-five Dioceses and nineteen mission stations in the territory of the United States and its possessions. The present Presiding Bishop is the Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, 1938--., Bishop of Virginia.

See the forthcoming Inventory of the Church Archives of New York City.

B. THE FIRST PROVINCE, 1914--.

The first Province is made up of the Dioceses of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Western Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. An annual meeting called the synod is held annually except for years when the General Convention is in session. The first President was the Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, Bishop of Massachusetts. The present President is the Rt. Rev. James De Wolf Perry, Bishop of Rhode Island.

See the forthcoming Inventory of the Church Archives of Massachusetts.

CHURCHMEN OF VERMONT

Foremost among pre-revolutionary war pioneers were outstanding churchmen. Jehiel Hawley, one of the recognized leaders of "the green mountain boys" in their early days, was without doubt one of the most astute stalwarts of these rugged pioneers. Largely through his influence as lay reader and that of his immediate family the church was so planted in Arlington as never to fail. He was the forerunner both in public and church circles of a long line of churchmen of like interest.

The society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts which had been their aid in Connecticut and Massachusetts continued that aid to these churchmen in the wilderness. A stream of its missionaries came to these pioneers to hold regular services and give a blessing to them in their struggles. The Rev. Samuel Andrews¹ of Wallingford, Connecticut, began the work in 1767, holding services in Arlington, Sunderland and vicinity, baptizing twenty-nine. From Derby, Connecticut, the following year came the Rev. Richard Mansfield² baptizing thirty-six in the same region. Stationed at Albany, New York, the Rev. Harry Munro³ carried his ministry into southwest Vermont in 1769. The eccentric Rev. Samuel Peters of Hebron, Connecticut, traveled up the Connecticut River to Strafford, Thetford, Bradford and over the mountains to Manchester and Arlington in 1770.⁴ But of all these leaders, who through numerous perils in the pathless woods carried out the work, the Rev. Gideon Bostwick of Great Barrington, Massachusetts, stands out. He considered south-western Vermont as part of his parish making at least eight trips to them between 1772 and 1789.⁵

First clergymen within Vermont or its environs were the Rev. Ranna Cossitt, paid by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, and stationed at Claremont, New Hampshire, who reports in 1773, that he preached in thirteen towns, some of which were in Vermont; the Rev. James Nichols at Arlington, 1787; Tillotson Bronson, a pupil of Richard Mansfield at Hanover, New Hampshire and Strafford, Vermont, 1778-89; Bethuel Chittenden, brother of Thomas Chittenden, Vermont's first Governor, served as a layman around Tinmouth and vicinity, Chittenden reading services of the church so that interest was awakened which still survives. In 1787 at fifty years of age he offered himself to the church and was ordained deacon by Bishop Seabury of Connecticut, who had been consecrated as the first Bishop in the United States by the Scottish Bishops in 1783. His life thenceforth until his death bore much fruit for the church. To the east into Bethel and vicinity and upon his removal to Shelburne in 1790 into all that part of the state, this venerable man served until his death "on a Sunday morning while sitting in his chair with his people around him and about to begin the solemnities of holy communion".¹ The Rev. Reuben Garlick settling first in Alburg and later at Jericho served as doctor, schoolteacher and clergyman having a wide influence throughout that territory until removal to Shefford, Canada, in 1905. The Rev. John Ogden walked 100 miles from his parish at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, for services in eastern Vermont. The Rev. Daniel Barber served first in the southwestern part of the state and then on the eastern side from his New Hampshire parish at Claremont. The Rev. Amos Pardee also served churches in the southwest until 1801. With the death of Bethuel Chittenden in 1809 there was but one clergyman left in the state, the Rev. Abraham Bronson, located first at Arlington and later at Manchester. The Rev. Mr. Bronson served the whole state as a parish. His Journals picture a traveling ministry throughout the state under the most trying conditions. Alone he, as Abraham of old, stood out as a mighty man of faith. From the end of the war until 1800, the church in Vermont received advice and guidance from the Rev. Samuel Parker of Trinity Church Boston.

Through these days the church was greatly beset by the opprobrium cast by the Revolutionary War and its aftermath. Many of her early adherents were driven out and their property confiscated. Others who remained were greatly hampered in their public carrying out of services. Then too, as an aftermath, a battle began over the church lands granted by Governor Benning Wentworth of New Hampshire. These consisted of a glebe for the Church of England as by law established and also one for the benefit of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, in most of the 128 townships which he chartered. In 1815 the courts decided against the glebe lands belonging to the Church of England, except in Arlington where the church was the first and only established church. Land speculators were so busy that prior to that time title to many were entirely lost and contests over them were up in nearly every session of the Legislature and in the courts. In 1823 the contest of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts lands was settled by decision of the United States Supreme Court in favor of the Society. Gradually in the succeeding years the church, as attorney for the Society, gained possession of some of the lands although the task of recovery has been a herculean one. Not until 1929 were the lands deeded to the trustees of the Diocese. Prior to that time they were in the hands of land agents who were given a power of attorney by the society.

For years no attempts were made at organization. Wilderness conditions were not favorable. The mountain range broke up early interrelation of east and west sides of the state. However, their very isolation probably was one cause of movements in this direction. A union was formed in the Connecticut River Valley in 1785 among certain clergymen in New Hampshire and the churchmen of Strafford, Hartland, Norwich, Bradford, Thetford and Corinth in Vermont. The removal of the Rev. Ranna Cossitt from Claremont, New Hampshire, to Nova Scotia soon afterwards left them destitute of a clergyman and the Union dissolved.¹ Of more importance in the organization of the diocese was the fact that in 1787, Nathan Canfield was sent to represent the church at the convention in Stratford, Connecticut. Three years later preliminary arrangements were made at his house for the first convention in 1790.² In the convention of 1793, Dr. Edward Bass of Newburyport, Massachusetts was elected Bishop.³ Dr. Bass was not required by agreement to reside in Vermont. The next year they held a special convention at which time they reversed their decision about a resident Bishop and elected the eccentric Dr. Sameul Peters.⁴ This election was over the protests of Revs. Bethuel Chittenden and John Ogden, who seemed to have later fallen in line. However, neither Drs. Peters or Bass were ever consecrated as Bishops of the Diocese of Vermont. Nothing further was done about the matter until 1805, when the Rt. Rev. Benjamin Moore, Bishop of New York, agreed to act as a nominal head of the church without assuming any of the duties in order to aid in securing the lands of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts.⁵

The Massachusetts convention of 1809 voted to invite the churches of New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont to join in the election of a common bishop. The secretary was unable to send a notice being without knowledge of any churchman in Vermont. William Montague and Daniel Barber, however, called upon the Rev. Abraham Bronson, then the only presbyter in Vermont, who immediately gave his consent and secured that of the standing committee. A delegation including Bronson attended the convention in Boston in May, 1810 which organized the Eastern Diocese and elected the Rev. Alexander Viets Griswold bishop.⁶ A special convention at Middlebury, August 29, 1810, adopted the constitution of the Eastern Diocese and a new state constitution.⁷ Bishop Griswold was consecrated May 29, 1810, in New York City, and before the end of the year had begun his visitations in Vermont. Thus, after a period of fifty years, Vermont had the benefit of a bishop.

The fact that both the constitution of the Eastern Diocese and the new state constitution stated their subordination to the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, marked a further step forward in the history of the Vermont body. Although reputedly Vermont had early adopted a constitution acknowledging its subordination to the General Convention that body had never accepted a delegation from Vermont as a part of it. This failure to secure representation in the larger body was in part responsible for one other weakening incident before 1811.

On August 14, 1801, ten churches in the Connecticut River Valley, five in New Hampshire, and Hartland, Rockingham, Springfield, Weathersfield, and Westminster in Vermont, under the leadership of Daniel Barber, then at Claremont, New Hampshire, presented a petition to the General Convention asking permission to form a separate organization.¹ A month later this permission was granted on the grounds that, since these churches had acknowledged their subordination to the General Convention and that by virtue of their special geographic position they were not receiving proper ministrations and that since many lots of land belonging to the Church and the Society lay in this region, a separate organization was necessary.² Vermont being without representation could make no protest. New Hampshire finally succeeded in having this dispensation withdrawn in 1808.³ A wise policy of appeasement on the part of both the New Hampshire and Vermont conventions brought the seceded parishes back into the fold with a minimum of friction and hard feeling.

Though half a century was required in which to effect the organization, in view of the weakness of the churches and the difficulties which had to be overcome, both internal and external, one wonders how so much was accomplished. Many of the early presbyters were within the state but a short time or were otherwise removed from service. The Rev. John Ogden was but briefly at Hartland. The Revs. Amos Pardee, Henry Whitlock, Barzilai Bulkley and Reuben Garlick removed from the state. James Nichols, Russell Catlin and Daniel Barber were among those otherwise removed from service. Thus, of all the clergymen who served Vermont prior to 1811, only Bethuel Chittenden, who died in 1809, and Abraham Bronson, who settled here in 1803, remained. The picture from the point of view of the laity was but slightly better. Of the thirty-four parishes represented in the convention up to 1811, at least twenty-three became extinct before that date.⁴ No doubt this high mortality was largely due to the fact that many of the parishes were never legally organized. But nevertheless, at this spot the picture was a discouraging one.

Under the guidance of the venerated Bishop Griswold, the church in the two decades of his episcopacy gained many converts and accessions. Unreliable as the early data are, they still show something of the trend. In 1815, two churches reported ninety-five communicants. In 1832 nineteen parishes reported a total membership of one thousand one hundred and twenty-seven; the twelve surviving parishes in 1811, increased to twenty-four, but many dropped by the wayside; of the twenty-eight clergy who served in the period only thirteen were left and only a few had served throughout the whole period. While numerous revivals were adding to the number of communicants the forces of emigration were draining away many of them. Guilford, in the four years preceding 1826, lost one hundred and twenty-six persons by death and removal. Such examples could be multiplied almost indefinitely.

Although this cooperation with other states in the support of a common Bishop carried the Vermont Diocese over a difficult period, the churches never felt they had achieved the goal so earnestly desired - that of a diocese with its own bishop. The recovery of the lands belonging to the Society gave the Church, by virtue of the power of attorney, the means to support a bishop of its own. Consequently at the adjourned annual convention, August 31, 1831, when the decision of Massachusetts to withdraw from the Eastern Diocese was announced, the convention voted to withdraw and elect its own bishop. The necessary consent from the Eastern Diocese having been received the convention of May 30, 1832 resolved "That the Protestant Episcopal Church in the State of Vermont, is hereby declared to be, and is an independent and distinct Episcopal jurisdiction, under the name and style of the 'Diocese of Vermont', subject only to the laws of our Lord and Savior, and under Him, to the Constitution and Canons of the Protestant Episcopal Church in these United States."¹ Thereupon the clergy nominated the Rev. John Henry Hopkins for the episcopate by a vote of seven to six over John S. Stone. The laity approved thirty-one to nine.² Thus the full organization of the Diocese of Vermont was achieved.

Bishop Hopkins was consecrated in New York City, October 31, 1832. He established his residence in Burlington three weeks later, where, in addition to the duties of bishop he was to serve as rector of St. Paul's Church. If there be any keynote to his thirty-five years service to the Vermont Church, it lies in the activity of which this first step was a forenote. This Irish immigrant, former iron-master and successful lawyer who left a lucrative practice, became the builder materially and spiritually of the church in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. While in his Pittsburgh pastorate he organized at least seven parishes in Western Pennsylvania and conducted a successful school. He was preeminently a man of action with talents fitted to his ambition. His services at Trinity Church, Boston, had been entered primarily with the hope of establishing the Episcopal Seminary in Cambridge, Massachusetts. Taking the lead in this beginning, he was not supported by the church in Massachusetts to the necessary extent and so had accepted the call of Vermont. Here again, as in his own home at Pittsburgh, Bishop Hopkins established a school. This was all done at his own expense. The convention in 1836 voted its approbation. By 1837, he reported that the extensions added to his home for the purpose of a school were completed and ready for occupation. The tragic sequence to his efforts are recounted in the history of the Vermont Episcopal Institute and so do not need to be repeated here. The failure was such a severe blow to him that for some time he contemplated resigning his episcopal office.¹ In a period of reform and extremes, Bishop Hopkins showed at his highest. Refusing to accept the idea that the Church must participate in secular and legal reforms, he carefully kept the Church in Vermont out of the maelstrom that engulfed most protestant sects. Like Roger Williams, he firmly believed in the complete separation of church and state. He avoided the temperance reforms and anti-slavery agitation insisting upon the catholicism of the Episcopal Church. To this spirit, which he showed and practiced, the Episcopal Church of the United States owes its unity, harmony and much of its steady development in strength.

Within the Diocese as elsewhere, Bishop Hopkins legal mind proved valuable. The Constitution and Canons of the Diocese of Vermont adopted in 1836 have been the basis of its government until the present day. His influence within the General Convention of the United States was equally marked in this regard.

The Rt. Rev. Dr. Hopkins was the originator of the Lambeth Conference. Quoting from a letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury in 1851, "I fervently hope that the time may come when we shall meet in the good old fashion of Synodical action. How natural and how reasonable would it seem to be, if in a time of controversy and division there should be a council of all the Bishops in Communion with your Grace; and wouldn't such an assemblage exhibit the most solemn and under God the most influential aspect of strength and unity in maintaining the true gospel".

As presiding Bishop of the United States, 1865-69, Bishop Hopkin's churchmanship reached its climax. He held North and South in amicable relationship within the church in spite of the Civil War. His ministrations in his presiding capacity were country wide. The first Lambeth Conference was held during this period and, in a time which might have been fatal due to circumstances unusual, this mighty leader led the Church forward.

HISTORY
First entry (19)

Great was this first Bishop of the Separate Diocese of Vermont as a churchman, greater still were his ordinary activities. Architect of many church structures in Vermont, he was also called to lay out the University of South at Sewanee, Tennessee. He was the most capable exponent of Gothic Architecture of the day. Rector of churches in time of their need, as well as Bishop, he enlivened churches from death to life and so well was this accomplished that the results are still evident today.

As financier and business man he had few peers. His business acumen is attested by the various properties purchased by him at various times in the vicinity of Burlington. In small fields literally hundreds of dollars were raised. Into England, New York City, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Boston and other places, he went raising seemingly impossible sums for his rural diocese. After the diocese failed to support his first school and he was plunged into debt, he wrote himself out. His abounding spirit was transferred into material resources out of the most barren and hopeless situations.

As an author, having written over fifty books and pamphlets, he was the outstanding Bishop of the United States in his day. Furthermore, these were written without seemingly interrupting his usual activities, and largely written on theological or other matters which might be considered an over-tone to the usual episcopal duties. He was a musician, composer and painter and in all these fields he left many worthy productions.

Not the least of all his great contributions were those of his own household. During his last days and after his passing, worthy sons and daughters and their families and now the next generation carry on. As Moses led his people to the threshold of the promised land through the wilderness, so this diocese and the church in the United States, were led by Bishop Hopkins.

The flood of emigration greatly hampered Bishop Hopkins as it had Bishop Griswold and as it later did his successors. Laity left the state in swarms. Changes in clergy continued however, up to 1840, his school did much to fill vacancies so created. When his services were ended by death in January 1868, there were twenty-four clergy, thirty-four parishes, and two thousand three hundred and eighty-one communicants in the state. In thirty-five years, he had confirmed approximately four thousand five hundred persons. Vermont lost many of these members but other states profited.

Upon these foundations, Bishop William Henry Augustus Bissell, his successor, continued to build. Bishop Bissell, a native, knew full well the needs of his diocese and on his removal from the rectorship of Trinity Church, Geneva, New York, to his diocese he immediately launched out upon an aggressive program. Mission stations and missionary work were greatly emphasized. Often despite injury to his own health he personally carried on.

First entry (19)

During his regime a missionary fund was established; a society for the increase of the ministry was formed; and in 1878 the Women's Auxiliary was organized. An episcopal residence in Burlington was given the church by John D. Jones of New York City, in 1879. There was also a growing emphasis upon the importance of the laity. Financially the church moved forward and the boy's school or Institute reached its highest development. Thirty-six clergymen, fifty-five parishes or missions where services were regularly held, and four thousand two hundred and forty-four communicants were the totals in his last report made in 1892. He had confirmed nearly six thousand persons before his death in 1893. Emphasis on catechizing the young, longer rectorships and more adequate support of the clergy were his great contributions.

The Rt. Rev. Arthur Allison Crawshaw Hall, a former Cowley Father, of English birth, who had served as missionary in British Columbia, succeeded to the episcopate February 2, 1894. Bishop Hall, though continuing the missionary work, gave a large portion of his time to elevating the ecclesiastical tone of the Church, holding innumerable retreats for the clergy at Rock Point, and delivering numerable charges to his clergymen and laity. In 1895 the present Episcopal residence was erected at Rock Point and so became the valuable center around which the life of the diocese is carried on with its bishop in the closest touch with its axis. Under his leadership, an endowment was finally raised and a girls school was opened, however, early in his term of service he had to bear the disappointment of seeing the Institute close. Both outside and within the diocese he was in constant demand as a lecturer. For a brief period he served on the faculty of the University of Vermont. As a scholar the church has known but few of his caliber. The Marginal Readings Bible was largely the work of his brain and pen. He also was the author of numerous publications. A youth movement was started during this time and a Diocesan publication, "The Mountain Echo" was published. Throughout much of his episcopate he was hampered by ill health necessitating the assistance of Coadjutor Bishops. Fortunate indeed was the diocese because of his wise choice of Coadjutor Bishops George Yemens Bliss, 1915-24; William Farrar Weeks, 1913-15; Samuel Babcock Booth, 1924-29, who, with the help provided by his personal chaplain, carried forward the work until his death in 1929.

Bishop Samuel B. Booth, a native of Pennsylvania, was consecrated Coadjutor Bishop February 17, 1925, and became Bishop in 1929. He immediately started a short but very active career. "The Church Mission of Help", was organized, and active parish visitation was instituted, and new life was instilled into the church as the episcopate moved out nearer to clergy, laity and religious life throughout the State of Vermont. No bishop was ever better beloved by people of all sects.

First entry (19)

With the passing of Bishop Booth in 1935, Bishop Vedder Van Dyck, formerly rector of St. Paul's Parish and a native of New Jersey, was consecrated, February 24, 1936. Under his leadership the property at Rock Point is being improved, Sunday Schools are gaining in interest, parish visitation is going forward and so too is "The Church Mission of Help".

Throughout its life the Church in Vermont has produced many outstanding laymen within her borders. Among them were the Canfields and Hawleys of and from Arlington, Chipman, Col. Cannon, Willoughby, Wilsons of Bethel, Deweys of Montpelier, Dr. Webb, Redfield, Col. Jackman, Clement, Thompson and Spargo. These are only a few of the names of those who have made the Diocese of Vermont a mighty power.

This summary would not be complete without the names of some of the outstanding clergymen, such as the Revs. Joel Clapp, John Hicks, Benjamin Atwell, George T. Chapman, Alonzo Flanders, William T. Forsythe, Gemont Graves, Homer White, J. Isham Bliss, Charles Fay, Josiah Swett, Oliver Hopson, William Hopkins and many others who have performed valiant service. They have left their own memorial in the Diocese of Vermont. In spite of the fact that these men, under such able leadership, were fighting a winning battle for the church, their mightiest contributions were at the same time being made elsewhere. As far as statistics show, the church in this Diocese has lost from around seventy per cent of its membership in the early days to about fifty per cent in later years, by emigration. These statistics are based upon removals from membership over ten year periods from 1820 to date. This emigration was first to the new west and in later years to the large cities.

Philander Chase, a native of Cornish, New Hampshire, received his education at Dartmouth College and while teaching in Bethel, where he conducted services as lay reader, was admitted for Holy Orders in 1796. Later life saw him as rector at New Orleans, Louisiana, and Hartford, Connecticut, and also as first Bishop of Ohio, 1819-31. Later he became a missionary for four years in southern Michigan and from 1835-52, Bishop of Illinois. While bishop he founded a college in each of his diocese and was, from 1843-52, presiding Bishop of the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States. The Rt. Rev. Carlton Chase, second Bishop of New Hampshire, 1844-70, was previously for many years rector of Immanuel Parish in Bellows Falls. Dr. Julius Walter Atwood, a native Vermonter, was missionary Bishop of Arizona, 1911-25. Bishop John Prentiss Kewly Henshaw of Rhode Island, 1843-52, got his start as lay reader in Trinity Church, Fairfield. The Rt. Rev. Charles Stewart, Bishop of Lower Canada, 1826-37, held services in Berkshire, Montgomery and Fairfield and for a brief time lived at Huntsburgh, Vermont. Bishop Edward Robert Atwill, 1890-1911, of Western Missouri; Anson Rogers Graves, 1890-1911 of the the Platte and Leigh Richmond Brewer of Montana, 1880-1916, were all Vermonters by birth or early training. The Rt. Rev. Benjamin Bosworth Smith, Bishop of Kentucky, 1832-84 and presiding bishop succeeding Bishop Hopkins from 1868-84, was at one time rector of St. Stephen's in Middlebury. Bishop Douglas Henry Atwill, 1937--, son of Bishop Edward Robert Atwill is Bishop of North Dakota. The Rt. Rev. Benjamin Washburn is Bishop of the Diocese of Newark, 1935--. Bishop George William Davenport but recently resigned as Bishop of Easton, Maryland, 1920-38 or 1939. Also within the state, Coadjutor Bishop William Henry Farrar Weeks, 1913-15, and George Yemems Bliss, 1915-24, were also native Vermonters as well as Bishop William Henry Augustus Bissell, 1868-93. Also missionaries Chapman, Wilson, Andrews, Robertson, Henshaw, Stewart, Norton, Sanford, General Secretary Twing and others originated here. Thus one sees that the Diocese of Vermont has played an important role within its church. Today this heritage continues.

2. VERMONT EPISCOPAL INSTITUTE, INC., 1832-99.

The establishing of the Vermont Episcopal Institute and the associated school for theological training was one of the many accomplishments in the lifework of Bishop John Henry Hopkins. Shortly after his arrival in Burlington on November 21, 1832, he opened a private school for boys at his residence on lower Church Street. In the Spring of 1833, he enlarged the building at his own expense to accomodate twenty boys. The Institute was patterned after the best German Gymnasiums. During the following years in his reports to the Diocesan Convention, he stressed the necessity of providing education for young people in Vermont and thereby removing one of the motives for emigrating from the state. He also urged the creation of a theological seminary for the training of young men for the ministry. The school was again enlarged in 1837 with the addition of two wings one for the boys' academy and the other for a theological seminary.

The construction had depleted all of the Bishop's personal funds, and had forced him to borrow $10,000 for its completion. The financial strain was enhanced by the effects of the depression. He appealed to the diocese for assistance in saving the school by offering the property at cost. A committee was appointed to consider the proposition but failed to make a report on the grounds that it had not sufficient time for a thorough investigation. Pressure from his creditors caused the Bishop to journey to England in November, 1838 to solicit funds. The amount secured did not meet his needs, and he returned the following spring to learn that the committee's report was still being withheld. The report, which was finally made in 1840, was a death blow. Because of the depression, the committee recommended that nothing be done until conditions improved, and that in the interim the clergy educate young men for the ministry. Left without the support of the diocese and without further resources of his own, Bishop Hopkins had no other recourse but to permit his creditors to sell his property, the proceeds of which did not suffice to cancel his entire indebtedness. The bishop felt the loss of his school so keenly that he often thought of resigning his episcopate. Ironically, over a period of twenty years the value of the property increased many times the amount that was needed to save it. The refusal of the members of the diocese to lend support to the Bishop's school was a case of marked short-sightedness.

In 1841, his son John Henry Hopkins borrowed $5,000 from friends and purchased what is now known as Rock Point. With the assistance of his sons, the Bishop cleared the land and beautified the ground thus transforming the hunting ground into an attractive farm. The natural increase in the property, plus the encouragement received from his son and parish caused the Bishop to hope for a fulfillment of his aid to establish a boy's academy and theological seminary. His creditors agreed to accept $12,000 in payment of their claims so he offered the property worth $15,000 in the name of his son to the diocese for the former sum, the property to be used for a home for the bishop of the diocese as well as for the schools. The offer was accepted and he was commissioned to solicit for a fund of $15,000 to cover the cost of the land and the erection of school building.

The Vermont Episcopal Institute was chartered by the state legislature, November 14, 1854, a board of trustees elected, and a year later, John Henry Hopkins, Jr., transferred the deed to Rock Point to the trustees. The active solicitation of the Bishop plus gifts made by him and his family resulted in a fund of about $40,000. Bishop Hopkins drew the plans for the institute which Ralph Adams Cram has recently designated as one of the most beautiful specimens of collegiate Gothic architecture in New England. The Bishop also supervised the construction of the building in 1860, and executed his duties so well that he was able to save over $5,000 in the cost of the building. The academic department was opened September, 1860 under the charge of the Rev. Theodore Hopkins, Principal, who leased the school from the trustees. It boasted a superior cabinet of minerals and shells, large hanging maps, terrestrial globes, atlases and geometrical planes and solids. The building, of remarkable beauty, contained a small library of books especially suited to boys, a chapel equipped with an organ, a carpenter shop, gymnasium, and a bowling alley. The enrollment the first year was twenty-one.

In 1875 the academy was enlarged to accomodate seventy-five. Theological students were connected with the school for a brief time, but because of limited space, their number decreased. Later they lived and received their training at either the principal's or Bishop's residence. For twenty years following 1870, the academy prospered. In 1881 Theodore Hopkins' term expired and the school was leased to Henry H. Ross. Subsequently, attendance fell off and this decline was further aggravated by the hard times in 1894. The financial failure of both the institute and Bishop Hopkins Hall motivated the closing of the two school in 1899. The doors of the academy were never again reopened for students.

3. BISHOP HOPKINS HALL, 1888-99,
CHURCH MISSION OF HELP, 1929--.

After the completion of the Vermont Episcopal Institute, Bishop John Henry Hopkins envisioned a school for girls. In 1864 he purchased a lot for this purpose on Park Avenue but sold the land to the City of Burlington for a cemetery in 1867 after deciding that the seminary should be located at Rock Point. Prior to his death in 1868, he had raised $5,000 toward the cost of its construction and had begun to quarry stone for the building. The Rt. Rev. William Henry Augustus Bissell, Bishop Hopkin's successor, continued the work in establishing the school. A fund of $20,000 was bequeathed to the school by the late John P. Howard of Burlington provided an additional sum of $40,000 be raised within a year. The final sum far exceeded the requirement, for Col. LeGrand Cannon raised $47,000, Thomas Canfield donated $10,000 and an additional amount was solicited by the Rev. Theodore A. Hopkins. The building was constructed according to plans drawn by Fred I. Camp, grandson of Bishop Hopkins, and opened in 1888 with a registration of eighteen pupils. The school was directed by the Rev. Lucius M. Hardy, Principal, who leased the building from the trustees of the Vermont Episcopal Institute. Failing financially, he severed his connection with the school which then came under the direction of Henry Ross, Principal of the Institute, under a similar arrangement. When the venture continued to be unprofitable, the trustees of the diocese decided that the schools should be discontinued until sufficient endowment could be raised for their successful operation. They were closed in 1899. A fund of $100,000 was raised and Bishop Hopkins Hall was reopened in 1913 with Miss Ellen Seton Ogden as principal. It operated with moderate success until 1929. About the time of its closing the Church Mission of Help was begun under Bishop Samuel B. Booth for the purpose of providing a home and educational opportunities to girls who lack those advantages. Bishop Hopkins Hall is now operated by the mission under the direction of Miss Doris Wright.

5. CHAPEL OF THE TRANSFIGURATION, 1937--, Rock Point,
Burlington

The Chapel of the Transfiguration is an out door chapel located on the grounds of the Vermont Episcopal Institute overlooking Lake Champlain. It was constructed by the Vermont Episcopal Church and consecrated in September, 1937, as a memorial to the Rt. Rev. Samuel Babcock Booth, fourth Bishop of Vermont. Marble was taken from the grounds of the Institute for its construction. There is a marble dais and a wooden open-air pulpit in back of which is a marble altar surmounted by a bronze cross carrying memorial inscriptions. A marble crypt before the pulpit contains the remains of Bishop Booth "who was born October 29, 1883, consecrated on February 17, 1925, and died June 17, 1935". The chapel seats about one hundred people.

7. ST. JAMES PARISH, 1784--., Main St., Arlington

Services were held here in the home of Capt. Jehiel Hawley, a lay reader, as early as 1772 by actual record, and as early as 1764 according to secondary sources and hearsay. The Revs. Gideon Bostwick of Great Barrington, Massachusetts, and Daniel Burhan of Lanesboro, Massachusetts, often visited here and took a vital interest in the welfare of the Episcopalians. The church was organized in 1784 under the name, Bethel Church. In its first days, the parish included members from Sandgate, Sunderland, and other neighboring towns. The first church building was erected in 1784 and dedicated in 1786, but was not fully completed until 1803. It was called the "Yellow Church" and was a wooden structure. In 1823 the building was torn down and replaced by the present stone structure of Gothic architecture in 1829-30. The architect was William Passman of Aulston, Yorkshire, England. This building was consecrated in 1831. In 1764 the town had set aside a lot of fourteen acres for a churchyard. This land has been used as a burying ground since that time, and the church is located beside it. The first settled rector was the Rev. James Nichols who served from 1784-88. Later, the Rev. Mr. Nichols served as rector at Sandgate. In 1804 a church known as Bethesda was erected in West Arlington and services were held alternately in the two churches until 1827 when services ceased at West Arlington. The property was later taken over by the Union Society of that village. In 1838 the "Old Chittenden House" was purchased as a rectory. This was torn down and a new rectory was erected in 1845. Still another rectory was purchased in 1892, and sold in 1895 when the former building was repaired. The John Burdett Memorial Rectory was bequeathed to the church in 1930. A parish school was conducted from 1873-75. The former rectory was leased until purchased by Dr. Wilfred Lay in 1937. The present rector is the Rev. Phillip T. Fifer, Main St., 1939--.

Immanuel Church Parish

BELLOWS FALLS
(12)

12. IMMANUEL CHURCH PARISH, 1798--., 14 Church St.,
Bellows Falls

The Immanuel Episcopal Church was organized in Rockingham in 1798 by Dr. Samuel Cutler, a resident physician from Hartford, Connecticut. Meetings were held in the old meetinghouse and school house by transient clergymen. The church was reorganized in 1809 under the name Protestant Episcopal Society of Rockingham. In 1816 it was decided to move to Bellows Falls and a wooden building was completed in 1817 on the site of the present structure. At this time the name was changed to Immanuel Church. The Rev. George T. Chapman was appointed rector. A group of Episcopalians in Westminster who, although never organized, had been holding meetings since 1798, joined the parish in 1817. In 1819 Drewsville, New Hampshire, was made a mission of the parish and services have often been conducted there by the rectors of this church.¹ The Rev. Carlton Chase, 1822-44, a graduate of Dartmouth College and later Bishop of New Hampshire followed the Rev. Mr. Chapman. In 1861 the old building was torn down and the present stone structure of Gothic architecture was erected and consecrated in 1876 and the name was changed to Immanuel Episcopal Church. St. Agnes' Hall, a church school for girls, was started in 1868 and disbanded in 1884 when Bishop Hopkins Hall came into existence. A parish house was presented by Mrs. James Williams in 1891 under the name Schouler Memorial Chapel and Parish House. It is a granite building of Gothic architecture. The church was re-decorated and repaired in 1883 and 1927. The present pastor is the Rev. John Currier, 14 Church St., 1919--., who graduated from the University of Vermont and General Theological Seminary.

13. ST. PETER'S PARISH, 1834-- , Pleasant and School Sts.,
Bennington

There is a record in Great Barrington, Massachusetts¹ of a baptism in Bennington performed by the Rev. Gideon Bostwick of Great Barrington in 1782. Delegates to the Diocesan Convention were sent from Bennington in 1792, 1793 and 1796. Bishop Alexander V. Griswold preached here in 1821. St. Peter's Parish was organized in 1834. A wooden church building was erected in 1835 and consecrated in 1839. The first rector was the Rev. Nathaniel O. Preston, 1834-44. He moved from Bennington to New Orleans, Louisiana and later to Topeka, Kansas. The church was remodeled in 1859, and a rectory was purchased in 1879. The present building was erected in 1907 and dedicated in 1909. It is constructed of dark blue dolomite pointed with wide ribbon cement in the early English style. An unorganized mission was conducted by this parish at North Pownal from 1903-9 and also at North Bennington. The present rector is the Rev. Norman Dare, 211 School St., 1931-- , a graduate of Wesleyan University. (For affiliated missions see entries 71, 73).

14. THE PARISH OF CHRIST CHURCH, 1794--. North Main St., Bethel

Deacon Bailey Chase of Cornish, New Hampshire, a proprietor and extensive landholder, was instrumental in the formation of this organization in 1794. His son, Philander, who later became Bishop of the Church, lived in Bethel at various times. A graduate of Dartmouth College, he taught school at North Bethel. Services were held in his log school house, and the Episcopal group were early visited by clergymen among whom was the Rev. Bethuel Chittenden who preached twice each year. Services were also held at Gilead near the head of Ordway or Gilead Brook in Rochester. In 1821 the church was reorganized under the name of the Protestant Episcopal Church and Society in Bethel, which was changed in 1823 to the Bethel Episcopal Society. However, since the church was commonly known as Christ Church, Bethel, this caused confusion in identifying the church and society. Therefore the society adopted the new title, Parish of Christ Church, Bethel. The first rector was the Rev. Joel Clapp, D.D., 1822-30, formerly rector at Shelburne who also served St. James Church in Woodstock. The first meeting house was erected at North Bethel in 1823 as an exact replica of Christ Church, Fairfax Parish at Alexandria, Virginia, where George Washington worshipped, the plan also extending to the churchyard and burying ground. Col. David Warren of Rochester was its chief builder. It was consecrated as Christ Church, Bethel, by Bishop Alexander Griswold in 1824. A rectory was erected in 1827. In 1838 the rectory barn burned but was rebuilt in 1840. One of the interesting votes on record is the one regarding the opening of the church to a denomination called Christians in 1834, and one assessing the members $38.33 to cancel indebtedness incurred in building the barn. In 1845, the society members voted to confer with the Royalton parish in regard to building a church at West Bethel and uniting the two parishes. The union did not materialize, but a new church was erected at West Bethel in 1846, consecrated in 1847, and repaired in 1880. It is a wooden edifice of Gothic style. In 1852 the old church building was deeded to the Methodist Episcopal Society in Gilead. It was repurchased by a representative of the original proprietors and reconsecrated in 1872. An annual service is held in it once a year. The rectory was sold and a new one erected in 1849 to which an addition was made in 1852, and repairs in 1889. St. Paul's Parish of Royalton was set off from this parish in 1835, and Grace Church of Randolph Center in 1834. The parish is at present, without a rector due to the recent death of the Rev. Frederick Marcy DeForest, rector from 1924-- (For affiliated churches see entries 84, 85, 87).

16. ST. THOMAS' CHURCH, 1839--, Conant Square, Brandon

St. Thomas' Episcopal Church was organized in 1839 at the home of Royal Blake, founder of the village of Forestdale, where earliest services were held. The upper room of the Town Hall was purchased, made into a chapel and used for meetings until the erection of the church. The edifice was begun in 1860 and designed by the Rt. Rev. John Hopkins. Of Gothic architecture, it was constructed of blue limestone from local quarries with the interior finished in local butternut. The church was completed in 1861 and consecrated in 1863. The Rev. Josiah Perry, who was ordained by the Diocese of Massachusetts in 1839, came to the parish in 1841 and remained until 1844. The parsonage, located on the opposite corner of Conant Square, was purchased from the Conant family. Grace Church of Forestdale is also part of St. Thomas' Parish, serving the people of Forestdale and vicinity. Since 1931, both have received the ministrations of the Rev. Arthur Roy Eric Green, of 19 Conant Sq. He was graduated from Carisbrook Technical School and Liverpool University in England in 1914, and also pursued his studies at Boston University. 17. PARISH OF ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH OF BRATTLEBORO 1853--
187 Main Street, Brattleboro

The Parish of St. Michael's Church of Brattleboro was organized 1853. Prior to this date, Episcopal services were held in Brattleboro by visiting rectors from Christ Church in Guilford, the parish then being known as the Missionary Parish of St. Peter's. Mention of these services, held as early as 1834, is found in Cabot's "Annals of Brattleboro".¹ Early records of the parish have not been found, but entries in the accounts of the town treasurer for this period show that a room in the town hall was rented for Episcopal services. The new parish continued to use the town hall for several years. In 1836, the Rev. David S. Devens became the first rector to officiate regularly in Brattleboro although still in charge of the Guilford Church. When the St. Michael's society was organized, the services of the Rev. George C. V. Eastman were secured. He resigned in 1854. At a vestry meeting held in 1857, it was voted to build a church and to secure a site for the structure. In November of that year, J. Coleman Hart of New York, an architect by profession, donated the plans from which the church was built. Built of brick and timber and of Tudor design but lacking a belfry, the church as it stands today still retains the architectural lines provided for in the original plans. Construction was started in 1857 and concluded the following year. A Guild house, carrying out the original design, was built in 1917. First services were held on the feast of St. Michael's and All Angels, September 29, 1858, and the church was consecrated in 1863, with the Rt. Rev. John Henry Hopkins, first bishop in the diocese of Vermont, officiating. A rectory was purchased by the society in 1867 on Green Street. This was sold in 1871 and the present rectory was built at 7 Tyler Street. Title to the church building and grounds was vested in the Diocese of Vermont by a vote of the society in 1882. Exactly a year later, title to the rectory was also transferred to the diocese. The present minister, the Rev. Clarence C. Sylvester, 7 Tyler St., formerly of Pennsylvania, has been associated with the Parish of St. Michael's Church since 1930.

21. ST. PAUL'S PARISH, 1830--., Bank and St. Paul Sts.,
Burlington

In the early days Burlington was a mission of Trinity Parish, Shelburne, which was organized in 1816 although services had been held there since 1790. St. Paul's Parish was organized in 1830, and the first services were held in the old Court House which was located on the site of the present Fletcher Free Library. A blue limestone building of Gothic architecture was erected in 1832 and consecrated the same year. The Rev. George T. Chapman of Pittsfield, Massachusetts, became the first settled rector. The building was enlarged in 1851 and again in 1867. In 1852, the former home of Heman Allen at Bank and Pine Streets was purchased by individuals, and turned over to the parish in 1862. The present property was purchased in 1867. John P. Howard presented the stone chapel in 1883 and the rectory in 1884. The first vested choir of men and boys in Vermont was organized in 1883. The chapel of the Holy Spirit in the south part of the city was founded in 1903. It was later organized under the name of All Saints Chapel. The present rector is the Rev. William F. Lewis, 108 Bank St. The Lady Chapel in Grand Isle is under the jurisdiction of St. Paul's at present. (For affiliated churches see entries 20, 46, 93).

24. ST. MARK'S MISSION (First Grace Episcopal), 1784--, Castleton.

Town records here show a list of names under the incorporation of an Episcopal church in 1785. There is an earlier record of adoption of "Articles of Faith Agreed on by First Grace Episcopal Church in Castleton". The Rev. Bethuel Chittenden of Tinmouth often visited here and officiated at baptisms. The Rev. James Nichols who was ordained in England became the first rector and served until 1800. This organization lapsed and was reorganized in 1810 and a wooden building of Gothic architecture was erected and consecrated in 1899. The church declined rapidly and although legally existent they were practically extinct. The church building is still maintained but it is seldom used. In 1932 the church became a mission of St. John's Parish and is now served by the Rev. Emmett Paige of Poultney. Many early records were burned. (For affiliated church see entry 81).

27. ST. ANDREW'S MISSION, 1910--, Main St., Concord.

The mission was organized in 1910 and services were held in an old hall under the guidance of the rectors of St. Andrew's Church of St. Johnsbury. The Rev. Alfred Poole Grint was the first to preach to the new congregation. In 1911, the members decided to build a mission by donating material and labor. They constructed a small but attractive building which was dedicated the same year. At present no records are kept by the organization. Services are held each Sunday by the Rev. Stanley P. Jones of 56 Summer St., St. Johnsbury. The mission is at present not admitted to Union with the Convention. (For affiliated church and records see entry 99).

28. ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, 1840-ca., 1845, Derby Line.

The Rev. Norman W. Camp, a native of Derby, held services in 1839 in school houses. St. John's Church was organized in 1840. A chapel was erected and consecrated the same year. After the removal of the Rev. Mr. Camp in 1843, services soon ceased and the church became extinct in 1845.

1817 and services were conducted by lay readers until 1822 when the Rev. Jordan Grey became the first resident rector. The Rev. Mr. Grey was drowned in 1823 while crossing Trout Creek to attend a funeral. Construction of a wooden church building was started in 1821 on land donated by Mrs. Minerva Royce. The church was completed and consecrated in 1823. A rectory was erected between the years 1857-60. The building was destroyed by fire in 1868 and in 1871 Mrs. Ellen C. Marvin offered to build a new church as a memorial to her late husband Capt. Charles Marvin. The offer was accepted by the vestry and in 1874 the present redstone structure of Gothic architecture was completed and consecrated. In the nave of the church are six small memorial windows, each representing an apostle. A new rectory was erected between 1900-1912. In 1904 Calvary Church Cemetery Association of the Episcopal Society of East Berkshire*. Since about 1913 the church has been supplied by rectors from Richford. The present pastor is the Rev. 35. ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, ca. 1820-- , East Poultney

The Rev. Bethuel Chittenden visited here while at Tinmouth between 1787 and 1790. In 1799 the Rev. Amos Pardee held some services here. He sought the glebe land here but popular feeling was against him and in the town records of 1798 it is found that the glebe land was diverted to the use of schools. In 1800 the Rev. Mr. Pardee moved from Hampton, New York to Poultney. The church building erected in that year was in Hampton, New York. Between 1820 and 1824 the people in East Poultney organized a society and between 1820 and 1825 the glebe land was settled in their favor. They were served by the Rev. Moore Bingham of Hampton, New York, 1828-37. They erected the present church in 1831. It is a wooden structure of Gothic architecture with a quaint interior. Population gradually moved to

38. ST. MATTHEW'S PARISH, 1869--., Enosburg Falls

Prior to organization services were held here by neighboring rectors. The church was organized in 1869 by the Rev. Homer White, a native of Weathersfield and a member of the New York Bar, who also became the first rector 1869-81. The first service was held in the old brick meeting house which was also used by the Methodists and Baptists. In 1871, on land donated by Mr. John L. Kellogg, work was started on a wooden building which was completed in 1873 and consecrated in 1874. It is of semi-gothic style and the architect was C. C. Haight of New York City. The large stone font within the church is a work of art with its white medallions representing the Good Shepherd and the Sheep. This and other interior features were the gift of Mrs. Helen Margaret of New York City. A rectory was erected ca. 1913. A parish house was built in 1915. The present rector is the Rev. Charles E. Scrimgeour, 45 Church St., Richford, who is also pastor of St. Ann's in Richford, 1932--. (For affiliated church see entry 85).

40. CHRIST CHURCH, 1836-1937, Buck Hollow, Fairfax

According to earliest records a marriage service was performed here in 1785. Services were held in homes as early as 1790 by lay readers under the leadership of Abijah Hawley and Gould Buck who came from Arlington, Vermont. There was some sort of organization for records were kept. The Rev. Bethuel Chittenden visited here in the early days. After 1830, regular services were held by a clergyman every two or three weeks. Christ Church was organized in 1836. The first resident rector was the Rev. Ezekiel H. Sayles, 1840-42, 1854-60. A wooden church building of early American architecture was erected and consecrated in 1861. The property was transferred to the trustees of the Diocese of Vermont in 1885. In 1937 the church united with Emmanuel Church in East Georgia to form Christ Emmanuel Mission. Services are held in East Georgia during the summer and in Fairfax during the winter by the Rev. Hugh F. Morton, 39 York St., Swanton, who is also pastor of the Holy Trinity in Swanton. (For affiliated churches see entries 33, 102).

41. TRINITY PARISH, 1803--., Fairfield

Services were held here by the Rev. Bethuel Chittenden prior to 1800. Nathan Lobdell, a son of Ebenezer Lobdell, an early settler, was a lay reader and read services in his home or the log cabins of other early settlers. Trinity Mission was organized by the Rev. Russell Catlin from Connecticut in 1803. After three years the mission status was changed to that of a church. In 1806 the Rev. Barzelai Bulkley from Connecticut became the first rector and served a few months. He later became rector of Christ Church, Poughkeepsie, New York. The next rector, the Rev. Charles Stewart, later became bishop of Quebec. The church reverted to a mission status until 1811 when the Rev. John Prentiss Kewly Kenshaw, a young deacon studying for orders, served here. During his pastorate he was ordained priest and after two years service left and later became bishop of Rhode Island. A church was erected in 1815 and consecrated in 1818. This was a plain wooden building and was the first

45. CHRIST CHURCH, 1859, Franklin

The Rev. Thomas L. Randolph served as rector here in 1859. Due to the erection of a church across the line in Canada this interest became absorbed by that group.

46. THE LADY CHAPEL, 1911--, Grand Isle

This picturesque log chapel was built at Camp Westerly by Dr. and Mrs. John H. Hopkins in 1911. The architect was John Sutcliff of Chicago but the building was planned by Mrs. Hopkins and dedicated to her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Gemont Graves who, with their six children, established the camp. The logs for the building came from Maine, and the wall of the enclosure at the rear is composed of local field stones. Dr. Hopkins is a grandson of Bishop Hopkins, first resident Bishop of the Diocese of Vermont, and at the time the chapel was built was rector of the Church of the Redeemer in Chicago but spent his summers in Grand Isle. He has since retired and makes his permanent residence at Grand Isle. The Lady Chapel, having no connection with the Diocese, is sort of a family Shrine. However, the services are open to the public and during the three months each summer that Dr. Hopkins conducts them, the chapel, often the enclosure, and sometimes the lawns outside are crowded. Any records of baptisms, confirmations, marriages, or burials are kept at St. Paul's Church, Burlington. (For affiliated church see entry 21).

47. ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, 1879-88, Grand Isle

Services were held in the Union Meeting House and in the home of the rector, the Rev. Charles Fay, who served from 1879 to his death in 1888. As there were no male communicants, the church went out of existence at that time.

50. CHRIST CHURCH PARISH, 1818-- , Guilford

In 1817 a meeting was held at the residence of Artemus Gale in Guilford for the purpose of initiating plans for the erection of a meeting house. The prescribed amount was raised by subscription and a committee consisting of Ephraim Gale, Nahum Cutler, Calvin Harris, Stephen Gregory and Artemus Gale was chosen to supervise its construction. The society took as its name the Guilford East Parish, and formal organization of Christ Church took place in 1818. Subsequently, the Guilford East Parish and Society, in the center of the town were incorporated and by virtue of a general act of the legislature passed Oct. 6, 1798 became the Protestant Episcopal Church and Society in Guilford. The first Episcopal service was held in August, 1818 with the Rev. Daniel Barber, rector of the Episcopal Church in Claremont, New Hampshire, officiating. Land for the church edifice was deeded to the society by Ephraim Gale. The first settled minister was the Rev. Alfred L. Barry of Rhode Island, who, before his ordination in 1820 served as lay reader for two years, continuing thereafter as pastor until 1822. Since 1876 services have been conducted by the rectors of St. Michael's of Brattleboro. The rectory, built in 1849, was sold to the Congregational Society in 1906. In late years, only one service is held annually on Old Home Sunday, usually during the month of August. Christ Church was the parent church of St. Michael's in Brattleboro having supplied occasional preaching prior to organization of the latter church in 1853. (For affiliated church see entry 17).

52. MISSION OF THE HOLY COMFORTER, 1793-1809, 1876-94
Hartland

Services were held in the northern part of the town of Hartland by the Rev. John C. Ogden as early as 1793. A wooden building of New England meeting house type was erected in 1796, and was used by various denominations. The Rev. Russell Catlin came from Hinesburg and served from 1801-9 when services were discontinued. In 1856, the meeting house was moved across the railroad tracks to its present location and became a Union Church, although the Union Society has never had a deed to the land. The Rev. Thomas J. Taylor, a missionary, held services from 1876-78. Services were then held by rectors from Windsor until 1890, and from 1892-94 by the rector from White River Junction. The mission was then discontinued. (For affiliated churches see entries 114, 115).

For records see entry 4-CXXVIII.

54. PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH, 1790-ca. 1800, Hinesburg

In 1790, there were a number of residents of Hinesburg who were Episcopalians and for a time they held meetings on the Sabbath in private homes or community buildings. They had no meeting-house. In 1796 the Rev. Russell Catlin came here from Arlington but how long he stayed is not known. Some of its members were from the town of Charlotte. No records have been kept and churchmen have cooperated with the existing churches. (For affiliated society see entry 25).

55. MISSION, 1904-32, Hyde Park

The first services were conducted by Bishop Arthur C. A. Hall in the Congregational Church in 1903. This mission was founded by the Rev. William Thomas Forsythe, diocesan missionary for Lamoille County from 1904-8. The Lamoille County Mission included various towns in this section. Later missionaries carried on services until 1932. (For affiliated Missions see entries 51, 69).

56. ST. JAMES CHURCH MISSION, 1849--, Hydeville

First services were held by the Rev. Oliver Hopson, a graduate of Trinity College and General Theological Seminary, who was rector of St. John's in Poultney in 1849. In 1849 they joined the Diocesan Convention with ten members. Their first services as a parish were held in 1850. In 1851 the building was erected and consecrated in 1854 under the title of "St. James". The first rector was the Rev. Albert Hopson Bailey, a graduate of the University of Vermont and the General Seminary of the Episcopal Church in New York, who served them, 1854-57. After an absence of three years he returned and served until 1865. After struggling for many years alone the church became a mission of St. John's parish in 1932 and has been ministered to by the Rev. Emmett Paige, rector at Poultney since 1933. A plan is now in process to remove all equipment to Lake Bomoseen and start a mission there summers disposing of the building and lot at Hydeville. (For affiliated church see entry 81).

For records see entry 81-VII, VIII, XI.

57. MISSION (Unorganized), 1882, Irasburg

Services were conducted here by the Rev. Benjamin Atwell, missionary at Newport. (For affiliated church see entry 70).

58. CHRIST CHURCH PARISH, 1875--., South St., Island Pond

The first service of which there is record was conducted by a missionary, Daniel F. Smith in 1875. The mission was organized and a church erected but was not consecrated until 1880. It is a wooden building of English Gothic architecture. The Mission became a parish in 1880 and the Rev. Louis A. Arthur, who had served as missionary from 1878-80, became the first rector, 1880-81. A rectory was purchased in 1898, and in 1936, a new altar constructed. The present rector is the Rev. Arthur B. Crichton, also rector and resident of Newport who has served in Island Pond since 1936. (For affiliated Mission see entry 18).

59. CHURCH OF THE HOLY APOSTLES, 1858-1925, Jeffersonville,
(Cambridge Center)

As early as 1823 Bishop Alexander Griswold held services here and at Johnson and Waterville. The Rev. William C. Hopkins organized the church in 1858 and services were held through 1861. Services were resumed in 1867 and held until 1871 when they were discontinued until 1875. They were under The Trinity Joint Mission. Later they were served by Lamoille Valley Missionaries. Services were held in an upper room of the Town Hall which was called the Union Church, and in the Congregational Church. (For affiliated church see entry 51).

For records see entry 4-CXXXVIII.

60. CALVARY CHURCH, 1789-- , Jericho

In 1789 the Rev. Reuben Garlick, then of Alburg, baptized a child at the house of Joseph Brown. Services were held by lay readers until 1796 when the Rev. Mr. Garlick moved here, organized a society and held services alternately with Essex until 1806. A Methodist revival then broke up this interest. No records of further services are found until in 1842 Calvary Church was organized. The Rev. Samuel B. Bostwick, ordained at St. Paul's Parish, Burlington the same year, held services for two years. Lay services were held for several years following with the Rev. Mr. Bostwick, then of New York State, occasionally returning as visiting preacher. In 1857 a church building was consecrated, the plans for which were drawn by Bishop Hopkins. For a period of years the church was served by Lamoille County Missionaries. The property was transferred to the Trustees of the Diocese of Vermont in 1890. It is now served from Rock Point.

ST. JOHN'S MISSION, 1889-91, Ludlow

The Rev. Charles Stuart Hale, rector of Immanuel Church, Bellows Falls, organized this church and conducted services in a hall. In 1871 a fire destroyed the hall. All records and equipment were burned and the church went out of existence. From 1889 to 1891 a mission was carried on by the Rev. Thomas S. Ockford of Gethsemane Mission, Proctorsville. Services also have been held here occasionally since 1891 by missionaries in unused property of the United Church. (For affiliated mission see entry 82).

62. ST. PETER'S MISSION, 1895-- , Lyndonville

The first Episcopal services in Lyndonville were conducted in homes about 1892 by the "Wild Englishman", Ed Boulter. St. Peter's Mission was organized in 1895 by the Rev. Stephen Howard Alling who became the first settled rector. A brick building of Gothic architecture was erected in 1898. The present rector is the Rev. Stanley P. Jones who resides in St. Johnsbury. Zion Parish

MANCHESTER CENTER
(63)

63. ZION PARISH, 1782-- , Main Street, Manchester Center

The Rev. Abraham Bronson in his "Historical Letters" says, "The parish in Manchester was organized at the first settlement of the county by some emigrants from the west part of Connecticut and Dutchess County, New York, and previous to the war it consisted of fifteen or twenty families. A. M. Prindle was for some time employed as lay reader, and the Rev. Gideon Bostwick of Great Barrington, Massachusetts occasionally visited the parish. In 1768 the Rev. Richard Mansfield, a missionary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel from Connecticut held services here and in 1770 the Rev. Samuel Peters, a missionary from Connecticut also held services here." These early services were held in homes, schoolhouses and the courthouse. The first organization was in 1782, according to records by the Rev. Gideon Bostwick, when a group of people of Manchester formed as a church of England under his leadership. In 1785 the church voted to hire the Rev. James Nichols who preached about a third of the time that year. The Rev. Abraham Bronson served from 1802-32, at first serving both the churches of Manchester and Arlington as well as traveling and conducting services throughout the state. In 1825 he became resident clergyman of the Zion Parish alone. In 1806 the parish was reorganized under the name, Protestant Episcopal Church Society in Manchester. A church building was erected in 1820, and consecrated by the Rt. Rev. Alexander Griswold in 1821. A plain wooden structure, the church is still in use today. The church organization was incorporated in 1826, as Zion Parish according to the General Laws of 1797. The church in 1844 voted not to use the church buildings for political or secular meetings. In 1861 the meetinghouse was remodeled according to plans drawn up by Bishop John Henry Hopkins and in 1881 stained glass windows were installed. A rectory was built in 1886. In 1869 a resolution was adopted to hold services in Manchester village. Due to difficulty over holding services in a privately-owned chapel, St. John's was apparently set off in 1870. In 1894 St. John's became a diocesan mission but in 1917 by an agreement with the diocese, it became a part of Zion Parish except for July and August when it is a diocesan mission. The present rector is the Rev. William John Brown, 1923-- , formerly rector at Wells, Vt.

64. ST. STEPHEN'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH PARISH, 1810--., Main Street, Middlebury

The first Episcopal services in Addison County were conducted in Middlebury in 1804 by the Rev. Bethuel Chittenden, brother of Thomas Chittenden who was the first Governor of Vermont. The First Protestant Episcopal Society of Addison County was organized in 1810 and the Rev. Parker Adams was installed as the first rector in 1811. He served until 1813. Services were held successively in the Court House, the Seymour House and in a house built for the purpose by Daniel Henshaw until 1827 when a church building was completed and consecrated as St. Stephen's. The original rectory was located at 8 Pleasant St. and a new one on South St. was purchased in 1906. The church tower was repaired in 1868 and a chapel was built in 1879. The building was remodeled in 1923 and is now a blue limestone building of Gothic architecture. Since 1900 this church has supported All Saint's Church in Shoreham as a mission and has also supplied preaching for St. Barnabus Chapel in East Middlebury. The present rector is the Rev. Charles Whiston. (For affiliated churches see entries 34, 96).

First services were held here by the Rev. Mr. Farewell from Southern New England in 1804. Under his preaching, Joel Clapp, a native of this place was baptized and later gave a lifetime to the priesthood of his native diocese. The Union Church was organized in 1819. In 1827 plans were made for a meetinghouse which was erected and consecrated in 1835. It is a wooden structure of early American architecture. The first resident pastor was the Rev. Louis McDonald, 1828-37. The church was closed for repairs in 1870-71 and services were conducted in the Methodist meetinghouse. The church was reconsecrated in 1874. In 1897 the name of the church was changed from Union Church to St. Bartholomew's. Since about 1927 services have been held only once a year. The permanent upkeep of the church has been provided for by deceased members of the congregation. The present rector is the Rev. Charles E. Scringeour, 45 Church St. of Richford, 1934--.

68. CHRIST CHURCH PARISH, 1840-- , 64 State St., Montpelier

The first Episcopal meetings were held in the Hillside Block on Court Street in 1840. A wooden building was erected in 1842 and consecrated the same year. The Rev. George B. Manser,

Christ Church Parish

MONTPELIER
(68)

the first minister 1843-48, was at one time a prominent lawyer and a member of the congregation. He was made a deacon in 1842, and was advanced to priesthood in 1843. Work was started on the present building in 1866, and it was dedicated and consecrated in 1868. It is a granite structure of Gothic architecture. The church was seriously damaged by fire in 1903 but was repaired immediately. In 1927 the flood caused great damage to the church and parish house. The Rev. Frank J. Knapp, of 28 School St., who was and still is rector, was successful in raising $37,000 permitting repairs to be made and a parish house added. The Rev. Mr. Knapp came to the parish in 1921 after having served as a chaplain in the World War.

71. MISSION (Unorganized), 1864-66, 1890, North Bennington

Services were held here quite successfully from 1864-66 by the rector from Bennington. Hard times following the Civil War terminated them but they were continued for one year in 1890 by the Rev. William B. Walker, rector of St. Peter's Church, Bennington. (For affiliated church see entry 13).

72. THE PARISH OF ST. MARY'S, 1851--., Northfield

From the organization until 1856 no services were held although the organization was continued. In 1856 services were held at Central village in the Universalist meetinghouse with neighboring clergymen officiating. In 1857 the Congregational Church was purchased and moved from the central village to the depot village. In 1858 the Rev. William Cyprian Hopkins, son of Bishop Hopkins and a graduate of the University of Vermont became first rector and served until 1864. There has been a close relationship in years past, between this church and Norwich University, several of the presidents also serving as rector of St. Mary's. Norwich University was in 1852, and from 1869-80 under a general working agreement with the Diocese of Vermont.

The Parish of St. Mary's

74. ST. AUGUSTINE'S MISSION, 1879--., North Troy

Services were held here beginning in 1879 by the Rev. Nathaniel F. Putnam, rector of St. Andrew's Church, St. Johnsbury. These services were held every two months in the Congregational Church until 1882 when they were transferred to the Mississquoi Academy building. In 1885 Col. O. N. Elkins, who had been instrumental in this development was made a lay reader. Largely through the generosity of Col. Elkins, land was leased for 99 years from the Hon. John W. Currier in 1882 and a blacksmith's shop was rebuilt into the present wooden chapel of semi-gothic architecture. This mission, which is parochial in government, has always been supplied by rectors from St. Mark's Parish, Newport. In 1924 a Guild became an active supporter of the mission. (For affiliated church see entry 70.)

St. Barnabas Mission

NORWICH
(75)

75. ST. BARNABAS MISSION, 1833--., Main St., Norwich

Prior to organization of St. Andrew's Parish in 1833 under the leadership of Dr. Ira Davis, residents of Norwich attended services held for the cadets in the chapel of Norwich University. Until 1850, the members continued to worship at the chapel and other places in Norwich and at the home of Professor Hill of Dartmouth College in Hanover, New Hampshire. In 1842, the parish became St. Andrew's Mission, which name was retained until 1864 when it was changed to St. Barnabas Mission and was affiliated with the diocese of both New Hampshire and Vermont. A small wooden chapel was erected in 1863, mainly through the generosity and efforts of Mrs. Charlotte Rogers who secured contributions while abroad. Services were held regularly until about 1874. From 1874 to 1897 services were irregular but in 1897 the chapel was rededicated and regular services resumed. The chapel and many records were destroyed by fire in 1916. A larger building was erected the following year and rebuilt and consecrated in 1924. Since 1917 the mission has been a branch of the Diocese of Vermont. Mrs. Elizabeth Converse purchased a rectory which at her death will become the property of the church. The church has had the singular honor of having served as a training unit for students of Dartmouth College, six of whom later became bishops. The Rev. Leslie W. Hodder, Main St. is the present rector, 1936--. See forthcoming Church Archives of New Hampshire.

78. TRINITY CHURCH, ca. 1783-1836, Pawlet

Services were held here by the Rev. Bethuel Chittenden prior to his removal to Shelburne in 1790. There were also occasional services by the Rev. Daniel Barber of Manchester from 1788-95.
These were held mostly in private homes. About 1810 the church was moved to Granville, New York. The Rev. Palmer Dyer reorganized the Society as Trinity Church about 1823. The Revs. Amos Pardee, Stephen Jewett and Palmer Dyer of Wells, Vermont, and Hampton, New York conducted services until 1836. The church became extinct between 1830-40.

Grace Church Parish

RANDOLPH CENTER

Edward Herbert Randall, rector of the Grace Church parish in Randolph Center. He designed the church, erection of which was started in 1866, and the building was consecrated by the Rt. Rev. John Hopkins in 1869. With the departure of the Rev. Mr. Randall in 1867, the Rev. Charles Husband, who resided at the west village, became the rector of Grace Church Parish, resigning in 1868. In 1869 St. John's Parish was organized. The Rev. Henry C. Kinney was the first rector from 1869-70, also serving the Grace Church Parish. The church building, a wooden Gothic structure with stained glass windows, was repaired in 1893 and 1894. The Parish has been served the last few years by the rector of Christ Church, Bethel. (For affiliated churches see entries 14-VIII.)

84. GRACE CHURCH PARISH, 1834-- , Randolph Center

Bishop Alexander V. Griswold conducted a service in the Congregational Church here about 1820. The Rt. Rev. William Bissell second Bishop of Vermont a native here as a boy attended this service. The Hon. Dudley Chase was also present and was the outstanding layman here. "The Episcopal Society in Randolph" was organized in 1834 and the Masonic Hall was fitted up and used for services. In 1835 the Rev. John Sabine, son of the Rev. James Sabine of Bethel was made rector, 1835-36. No meetings of the vestry were held from 1842-48. The first and present church building was erected in 1848 , and has been repaired considerably in recent years. A parsonage was purchased in 1849 and sold in 1864. In the years about 1860 the church was known as Grace Church Parish. In 1869 St. John's Parish, West Randolph became a separate parish. This parish has been served the last few years by the rector of Christ Church, Bethel. (For affiliated churches see entries 14, 83.)

St. Ann's Parish

RICHFORD
(85)

85. ST. ANN'S PARISH, 1866--., Church St.,
Richford

The first society of St. Ann's was formed in 1866. Services were conducted by the Rev. Frederick A. Wadleigh from East Berkshire. The early meetings were held in the brick meetinghouse which had been erected in 1842. St. Ann's Mission was organized in 1880 and the Rev. George Herbert Bailey served as missionary from 1874-88. A wooden building of early American architecture was erected in 1883 on land donated by Mrs. M. A. Priest. The church was consecrated in 1894 and a rectory was built in 1899 on the adjoining lot. In 1903 the structure was extensively repaired. The mission became a parish in 1907. The Rev. Charles E. Scrimgeour, 45 Church St., is the present pastor, 1926--.

(86-88)

86. ST. ANDREW'S PARISH, 1843-45.
MISSION (Unorganized), 1917-25, Rochester

Organized by members of St. Thomas parish in Brandon. Under their rector the Rev. Josiah Perry, this parish started auspiciously but soon failed. A mission was carried on by the rector of Christ Church, Bethel, ~~from~~ 1919-25 although no record of that fact is found in diocesan or Bethel records. Services were held in private homes.

87. ST. PAUL'S PARISH, 1835-- , Royalton

The churchmen of Royalton worshipped at Christ Church, Bethel prior to 1835. St. Paul's Parish was organized in that year and reorganized in 1836. The ground upon which the church building was erected was given by Richard Bloss and Elizabeth Sprague under a deed executed in 1836. The building, a wooden structure, was erected in 1836 and consecrated in 1837. In 1838 Nathaniel Sprague was ordained deacon and elected rector on his ordination to priesthood in 1840. He was awarded the glebe land. The Rev. Mr. Sprague attended Dartmouth College from 1807-9 finally receiving the M. A. degree in 1822 and the degree of D. D. from Hobart College in 1847. Throughout its history this parish has been served by the same rector as the parishes at Bethel and Randolph. The parish has been served the last few years by the rector of Christ Church, Bethel. (For affiliated church see entry 14.)

Organized in 1826 this society had as first rector the Rev. Louis McDonald, 1826. In 1832 this society was merged with the Protestant Society of Trinity Church in Rutland to form Trinity Parish, Rutland. No records were found. (For affiliated church see entry 90.)

90. TRINITY EPISCOPAL CHURCH PARISH, 1817--., West St.,
Rutland

A missionary organization was formed here as early as 1793. The Protestant Society of Trinity Church was organized by the Rev. George Chapman of Greenfield, Massachusetts, in 1817. From 1826-32 the church was supplied from St. John's Church of Center Rutland. In 1832 St. John's Church merged with the Protestant Society of Trinity Church to form Trinity Parish, Rutland. The society was legally organized in 1832. A plain wooden structure was erected and dedicated in 1833. The first rector was the Rev. John Hicks, 1832-60, a graduate of the General Theological Seminary in New York City. In 1865 a new church was erected and consecrated. The building is constructed of grey stone and is of the Gothic type of architecture with Norman towers. In 1875 the Ladies Missionary Society raised funds for the building of the chapel. The chapel is constructed of blue marble and the architecture is in harmony with that of the church. An addition was made to the chapel in 1883. The church property was transferred to the trustees of the Vermont Diocese in 1886. The church was rebuilt in 1891 and a parish house was purchased in 1901. The present pastor is the Rev. Morgan Ashley, 85 West St., a graduate of Princeton University, 1903, B. S. and a special student at the General Theological Seminary, New York City. The Rev. Mr. Ashley has served this church and community since 1919. (For affiliated church see entry 89.)

91. EPISCOPAL SOCIETY, ca. 1793-1820, Salisbury

Stephen Hard, one of the early settlers of this town was a lay reader. It seems probably that a society was formed at an early date. However, Mr. Hard regularly held services of the church with occasional assistance from outside clergy, especially from Middlebury. Mr. Hard left town in 1812 and services were discontinued soon after. No records were found.

92. ST. MATTHEW'S CHURCH, ca. 1790-1827, Sandgate

Among the earliest members of St. James Arlington were settlers of this town. The Rev. James Nichols rector at Arlington officiated here. Services were held in a schoolhouse. According to convention minutes there was an organization here in 1822 known as St. Matthew's Church with Mr. C. P. Bronson as lay reader and according to diocesan records the Rev. Abraham Bronson was visiting minister in 1825. (For affiliated church see entry 7.)

For records see entry 4-CXXVIII.

93. TRINITY PARISH OF SHELBURNE, 1816--, Shelburne

Early services were held in private homes with the Rev. Bethuel Chittenden officiating from 1790-1809. The Trinity Church Society was organized in 1816. This organization was absorbed by The

Trinity Parish

SHELBURNE
(93)

First Protestant Episcopal Society of Shelburne in 1819 and meetings were held in the Old White Church. The Rev. Joel Clapp of Sheldon was the first resident rector. This wooden meetinghouse had been erected by the town in 1807 on land deeded to the town by Benjamin Harrison. The members were obligated to pay annually on the town list for the support of the minister. The building was burned in 1865 and a new town meetinghouse was erected in 1866. From 1867-91 Shelburne was a mission of St. Paul's in Burlington. The present Episcopal Church of stone was erected on land donated by Mrs. Helen G. Harrington and consecrated in 1886 and has been enlarged and redecorated several times largely through the generosity of the Webb family. In 1891 the congregation was admitted into the Diocese of Vermont, under its present name and the property was deeded to the Diocese. The present rector is the Rev. John Lynwood Smith, 1932--. Trinity Chapel in Winooski is a mission of this church at present and is served by the same rector. (For affiliated church see entries 21, 117.)

97. ST. MARK'S PARISH, 1832--. Main St., Springfield

The Episcopalians in Springfield belonged to the town church prior to 1832 when St. Mark's parish was organized and admitted to the convention. The members assisted in the building of the Universalist church in 1834 and owned pews in it but later disposed of their interests. The parish dropped from the convention in 1840 but meetings were held from time to time with St. Luke's in Chester and Immanuel Episcopal in Bellows Falls. The parish was reorganized in 1886 and was again admitted to the convention in 1888. A wooden church building was erected and consecrated in 1900. The Rev. Paul Fish, a graduate of the General Theological Seminary, became the first settled rector, 1900-1904. The building was repaired in 1937. The membership now includes Episcopalians from Weathersfield. The present rector is the Rev. William Bailey, of Chester, 1938-- who also attends St. Luke's in Chester. (For affiliated churches see entries 12, 26, 108.)

ST. JOHNSBURY
(99)

99. ST. ANDREW'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH PARISH, 1876-- , Main St.,
St. Johnsbury

Episcopal services were held in Union Hall and private homes from 1852-76 for families that had seceded from the South Congregational Church of St. Johnsbury. Rev. J. Isham Bliss Diocesan Missionary served them and the mission was called Trinity. In 1876 St. Andrew's was organized under the Rev. Nathaniel F. Putnam, formerly rector at Poultney, who remained in charge until 1881. The construction of a meetinghouse was started in 1877, and the church, a wooden building of Gothic design, was dedicated in 1881. In 1836, a union with St. Peter's Mission of Lyndonville took place and in 1910 St. Andrew's at Concord was organized as a mission of this church. The congregations of both have been served by the Rev. Stanley P. Jones, 56 Summer St. resident pastor in St. Johnsbury since 1936. (For affiliated missions see entries 27, 62.) (For South Congregational Church see forthcoming Church Archives of Vermont, Vermont Congregational and Christian Conference.)

Episcopal services were held in a schoolhouse here by Mr. Stephen Royce in 1853.

102. HOLY TRINITY PARISH, 1820-- , Grand Ave., Swanton

Christ Church in Swanton was organized in 1820. Services were held in homes until 1824 when a brick building was erected with the understanding that the pulpit rights would be shared equally by the Congregationalists, Methodists, Episcopalians and Quakers. The Rev. Joel S. Covell, 1824-26, was the first rector. In 1867 arrangements were made to hold regular services in Academy Hall at Swanton Falls, and the name of the church was changed to Holy Trinity. A wooden building, now the parish house, was erected and consecrated in 1876. The present stone church of Gothic architecture was constructed in 1910 and consecrated the same

Vergennes

The first authentic record of the organization of the Protestant Episcopal Society begins in 1811. Services were conducted in public buildings and homes by the Rev. Parker Adams, then rector at Middlebury. St. Paul's Episcopal Church was reorganized in 1832 and the Rev. Charles Fay became the first resident rector, 1833-36. The courthouse lot was purchased and the present brick building of Gothic architecture was erected in 1834 and redecorated in 1874. A rectory was purchased in 1887. This was disposed of in 1890 and a new one purchased. A parish house and chapel were erected in 1933 and dedicated in 1934. Alterations in the church building were also made and the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary observed in 1936. There is no resident rector, the parish being served by the Rev. Stanley Ripper from Rock Point.

110. ST. PAUL'S CHURCH PARISH, 1824--, Wells

Churchmen were among the earliest settlers in Wells and it is probable that the Rev. Bethuel Chittenden held services here prior to his removal from Tinmouth to Shelburne in 1790. The first convention after the Eastern Diocese was formed was held here in 1811, and the first class was confirmed at that time. In the same year, the Rev. Stephen Jewett started a society composed of residents of Wells and Pawlet, Vermont, and Granville, New York. A school building, located between Granville and Blossom Center was used for services. In 1815 a church building was erected at Granville. Pawlet and Wells were organized by the Rev. Palmer Dyer of Granville in 1824. Until 1831 they were served by rectors from Granville. In 1841 the Rev. Lucious Purdy bought a lot and erected a church building which was consecrated in 1842. The altar for this church was handmade by the Rt. Rev. John Henry Hopkins, Bishop of Vermont, who was also architect of the building. The church owns a pewter communion set which was brought from England and dates back to the 16th century. Bishop Anson Graves, later of the Platte, was born here in

116. ST. PAUL'S PARISH, 1816--., State St., Windsor

Services were held in Windsor as early as 1770 by the Rev. Samuel Peters who was later elected Bishop of Vermont but was never consecrated. The Biennial Convention of the Eastern Diocese of the Episcopal Church was held here in 1816 and following this the parish was organized by the Rev. James Morse of Newburyport, Massachusetts. Services were conducted in the courthouse by Col. Alexander Dunham, a lay reader. The Rev. George Leonard became the first settled rector in 1817-29. The records were destroyed by fire in 1818. Following this the parish was reorganized under the name St. Paul's and a new constitution and new by-laws were adopted in 1819. The present brick structure of Colonial architecture was completed and consecrated in 1822. The corner-stone was laid by the Free Masons. A rectory was purchased in 1860 and improvements have been made to the church from time to time. The present pastor is the Rev. Harry H. Jones, 37 State St., 1937--.

WOODSTOCK
(118)

118. ST. JAMES PARISH, 1825--., Woodstock

Henry Barlow Brown, a barrister of St. Andrews, New Brunswick, moved to Woodstock about 1812 and is credited with providing the influence which led to the formation of St. James' Church. The Rev. Joel Clapp of Shelburne was invited to come and organize the parish in 1825 and became the first settled rector, 1825-32, 1840-67. Services were held by him in the Courthouse until 1827 when a wooden edifice was erected on land donated by Gen. Lyman Mower. Mr. John Pratt provided most of the money for the building. The present field stone structure of Gothic architecture was erected on the same site in 1907 and consecrated in 1920. St. Magdelene's Church of Woodstock, England sent two hand carved cedar panels to be inserted in the wainscoting. The present pastor is the Rev. Parker Webb, 5 Church St., a graduate of Williams College and the General Theological Seminary, 1936--.
